

REQUIRED PROOF OF FINANCES

The following information includes the estimated minimum cost of attendance for graduate international students at the University of Denver. These costs are taken from the Cost of Attendance website maintained by the Office of Financial Aid.

To issue the Form I-20 or Form DS-2019 for your program, the University of Denver must be able to verify that you have sufficient funds to cover the estimated costs of attendance for one academic year (3 quarters/2 semesters).

Direct Costs (# of credits per term depends on program): Tuition, Fees, Health Insurance*	See Attached Charts for 2023-24 Estimated Expenses
Indirect Costs: Housing, Transportation, Books, Personal Expenses

*Includes student health insurance premium of $1,885 paid in Fall & Spring terms

The estimated additional expenses for each dependent that requires F-2 or J-2 status are:

- Spouse:* $5,200 per academic year (3 quarters/2 semesters)
- Each Child:* $3,960 per academic year (3 quarters/2 semesters)

These funds can be proven in the form of bank documents, awards from the University of Denver, sponsorships outside the University, or any combination of these.

Please note:

- Only use funding that you will have access to during your program. The University cannot guarantee employment or funding outside that offered in your admission letter.
- The costs are for one academic year (3 quarters/2 semesters). If you remain in the U.S. through the summer quarter, you are responsible for any additional expenses, including tuition, fees, and books for summer classes you enroll in.
- These estimates assume a moderate lifestyle and do not include international travel.
- This document is not a coursework plan and does not guarantee you can complete your program in one academic year. Contact your academic advisor to make a coursework plan.
- This document is not a tuition bill. All costs are subject to change.
